The jury, after listening to the Coroner's charge, found that Bessie Slocum, who died of pneumonia, did not have the proper and timely assistance of a physician, through the neglect of the management of the institution; that the general uncleanliness of the institution, the presence of foul and impure air, the want of sufficient and experienced murses, and the gross negligence and the incompetency of the management contributed to the deaths of the other children; that the institution is unworthy of existence and undeserving of public confidence, and it would be in the interest of humanity that it be abolished; and that the management is deserving of special censure on account of their manner of conducting the institution.

Coroner Brady decided to hold Mr. Ramscar in $5,000 bail for the action of the Grand Jury, and in default of that sum committed him to the Tombs.

SPECIAL AGENT AYER'S ARREST.

SPECIAL AGENT AYER'S ARREST.

Colonel Ayer, the special agent of the Treasury Department, who was arrested at the Hodinau House on Saturday as an impostor, has been attached to the Appraiser's Department for about a year. Captain Adams is the chief of the special agents for this Customs Department, and Colonel Ager is entirely independent of him. The paintings which Colonel Ayer was in search of had been passed by a Customs officer upon the payment of $42 duty. The officer of the Appraiser's Department whose duty it was to examine the goods is said to have been abzent from the pier, and his duty was assumed by an officer of the Surveyor's office, who received and reported the duty paid by the Italians. So far as was known yesterday the value of the paintings was not indeen greater than that fixed by the Customs officer, but it was suspected that among the paintings were some of extraordinary value that were conceased in some way after Colonel Ayer's unsuccessful attempt to seize the whole lot at the hotel.

At the Custom House he further particulars regarding the matter could be learned yesterday. It can be a superfection of the painting the matter could be learned yesterday.

At the Custom House no further particulars regarding the matter could be learned yesterday. It was said at the special agent's office that the increase said at the special agent's office that the increase was merely the result of a method which allowed inspectors to collect duties on goods of the value of which they had not the slightest knowledge. They regretted the absence of the officer of the Appraiser's Department whose duty it was to be on the pact.

PETITIONS TO THE DOCK DEPARTMENT.

PETITIONS TO THE DOCK DEPARTMENT.

At a meeting of the Dock Commissioners two weeks ago the merchants and persons living near the East River between Roosevelt-st. and Peck Ship petitioned to have a dump at the Brooklyn Bridge pier removed. An inquiry led to the summoning of Mr. Barker before the Board yesterday, who said that he maintained a dump at the place complained of through an arrangement with Henry C. Murphy, of the bridge company, to whom he paid $100 a month for the privilege. He did not know whether the money was retained by Mr. Murphy or paid to the company. Mr. Murphy, since the dump had been complained of, had given him notice that the agreement would not be renewed at the end of the present contract, which will expire on June 17. D. C. Haskins, manager of the Hudson Tunnel Company, asked the Dock Commissioners to abolish or reduce the rentals for the use of lands under water at the foot of Merton-st., North River, under a lease excented on March 7, 1881. He said that the use of this land was only temporary, that it did not in any way impede commerce, and that "the company is engaged upon a work of great utility which will conduce greatly to the convenience and comfort of the utilizens and to the prosperity of the city." He added that the New-York Central Road and other corporations had the use of city property and paid nothing for it.

Morris K. Jesnp, who was largely instrumental in founding the Branch, spoke concerning the good that could be accomplished by the young men in the Bowery. The Rev. Fifty thousand persons had come under the influence of the Branch Association. Other speeches were made by W. W. Hopping, C. Brainerd and Robert McBurnie.

THE ATTACK ON CHRISTOPHER DENNET. THE ATTACK ON CHRISTOPHER DENNET.

Christopher Dennet, of Albany-ave., near King's Bridge, who was found insensible in the road near his home on Sunday night, said yesterday to a TRIBUNE reporter that he had trouble several times with one Jeremiah Brenner. This man had been unsuccessful in securing a license for a beer-shop which he wished to open in opposition to that kept by Dennet. On Saturday night Dennet had put Brenner out of his place for trying to create a disturbance. In the struggle Brenner was cut. He went after a policeman, who arrested Dennet and his wife; they were released on bail on the following morning. On the same day Brenner's brother told Dennet's wife that he would "fix" her husband. That night, while returning from a visit to a friend, Dennet was beaten and left in an unconscious state. He is unable to state positively who attacked him; but is confident that his assailant was Brenner's brother.

JESSE JAMES NOT A BAPTIST.

Among the visiting ministers at the weekly conference of the Baptist pastors vesterday, at No. 9 Murray-st, was the Rev. William Harris, of St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Harris said that his name had been connected with the funeral ergemonies over the dead bandit, Jesse James, and that he was eager to free himself and all the Baptists of his State from any alleged sorrow over the removal of that noted person. He denied that James was a Baptist at the time of his death, but admitted that he had been, and that his mother was still a member of that denomination, and that his father was a Baptist preacher. Mr. Harris said that all the Baptists were glad that James was dead, and it was only the manglad that James was dead, and it was only the man-ner in which he was killed that they with all good citizens deprecated.

CONTINUATION AND CONCLUSION OF THE OPENING

ADDRESS BY COLONEL BLISS.
WASHINGTON, June 5.--Colonel Bliss resumed

dicted and explaining who they were, Mr. Bliss continued:

The preliminaries to the conspiracy were begun in December, 1877. About that time Boone began sending out circulars to postmasters and others along the routes, asking for information concerning them, oforing in return to transact any business they only that we before the departments. Answers were to be addressed to "James H. Ketner & Co., Lock Box 714, Washington, D. C." Boone also and privately printed copies of the officini forms for bids of the Post Office Department. It was necessary to bave the curefus on these bids approved by a postmaster, and stephen W. Dereey had sent numbers of them to postmasters in his own state of Arkansas, and over his own algusture, and, sometimes using the official paper of the United States Schuic, had requested the postmasters to sign them. Mr. Clendeuin.

The combination was known under different names; sometimes as Minor, Valle & Co., sometimes as John W. Porsey & Co. In May, 1881, there seemed to have been a disagreement among the conspirators. Rerichl, Dorsey & Co. In May, 1881, there seemed to have been a disagreement among the conspirators. Rerichl, Dorsey is considered to the conspiracy. Mr. Biles then detailed the circumstances of Rerdell's confession to Postmaster-General James and Autoriay General Mac Veagh. Tals confession is in substance a statement that Brady received about thirty-three per cent of the receipts of the combination, and furner another percentage. Rerdell had read to Messrs. James and Mac Veagh etters relaxing to the conspiracy, but after reveagh etters relaxing to the conspiracy, but after rethe receipts of the combination, and furner another percentage. Rerdeli had read to Messis. James and MacVeagn letters relating to the conspiracy, but after renewing his allegiance to Dorsey the letters had been destroyed. "Fortunately," said the speaker, "we had seemed accurate copies, even tracing, of many of these letters, and will show them to the july."

A number of letters were quoted, most of them tending to establish a connection between Stephen W. Dorsey and Brady and the other members of the combination. Among them was one from Stephen W. Dorsey to one Joseph, a sub-contractor, exercily reprimanding him for writing to the Department and directing him thereafter to address his complaints to him (Dorsey), it was on this route that the sub-contractor had been assigned an atterly hopracticable schedule and heavily lined for not carrying it into effect, the fines being divided among the conspirators. On one route terminating at Lake City the mail carried in one year amounted to two circulars, two newspapers, two official letters and one ordinary letter; and for this service the Government paid $23,431 a year. Animas City was directly on a route; the stage passed by the very door of the post office. Yet compensation for ten miles increased distance was showed for stopping at Animas City. One of the petitions for increased service was in the handwriting of John R. Miner, the first name being that of Edward Hall, Postmaster at Canon City. This sentleman had seen that signature for the urst time since this trial began, and the other names were forgeries or the names of persons who did not live within thousands of mices of the routes. Upon such petitions increases were allowed. Petitions had actually been filed in the Department with a full list of names and the blanks untilled one undated letter, signed by Sidney Dillon, president of the Union Pacific Railroad, had cost the Government $30,000 a year until an nonest Administration came in.

uber of letters from postmasters remenstrating A number of letters from postmasters remenstrating against expedition were quoted by Mr. Bliss, but they had been disregarded, he said, and the expeditions enforced. On March 5, 1881, four days after the new Administration came in, Brady had issued another order of increase on one of the favored roads. The order was discovered by Postmaster-General James, and upon the same day he directed that it be revoked. An interview followed immediately between the Postmaster-General and Brady, who inquired whether that was to be the future policy of the Department, and was informed that it was. Brady, however, did not revoke the order, and it was only after its discovery sometime afterward by Mr. Woodward that it was revoked.

Mr. Binss summed up his argument by a statement of the number of contracts worked by the combination, and finished with an appeal to the jury carefully to consider the subject and render a verdict in conformity with the evidence.

The court then adjourned until to-morrow morning, when Mr. Wilson will begin the opening argument for

EXERCISES AT WEST POINT.

West Point, June 5.—The day has been clear and storing at intervals, which kept visitors away. The committee of the Academic Board finished the examination of the second class in English and began the examination of the second class in chemistry, mineralogy and geology, the fourth class in English, and the first class in French. The committee went to the hospital and examined Cadet Elliott in Spaulsh. He was injured by being thrown from his horse on Decoration Day. The 157 new applicants for admission to the Academy will begin to report to-morrow. No information has been received intimating that there will be a colored applicant among the number.

General Howard said to-day that he had called the attention of the Secretary of War to the question of vacancies in the corps of endeta. Shorthy after coming here he had a correspondence with the Secretary of War upon the subject, and had shown that for the last five years there and really been an increase in the number of each year's graduating class, the average being fifty-four, whereas, previous to tint, it had been forty-six. General Howard believes that the existing vacancies are the fault of the people, and that the people should understand that a good academic educatio is required for the applicant to pass a West Point examination and not an ordinary education. After the first year the student will find the examination rigid and severe, in fact, so severe that the ranks are rapidly cut down by the findings. General Howard ridicules the idea of making the West Point examinations easier, claiming that there is a necessity for a higher class of mittary education, so as to keep the institution up to a high standard. He is also opposed to a five years' course of studies, as it had been tried once and found to be so severe and exacting that the cadets could not stand it. The members of the Board of Visitors will seriously consider the whole matter in their report. This afternoon there was a battalion skirmish drill on the plain.

THE ANTICIPATED TAMMANY RUPTURE. THE ANTICIPATED TAMMANY RUPTURE.

The article in The Tribune yesterday detailing the dissensions in the Tammany Hall organization caused a good deal of comment among politicians. It created little surprise, however, for it has been known for some time that there was a good deal of feeling against the "Blossom Club crowd," Said one of the Tammany leaders: "I do not think that there will be an open ru, ture for some time to come at all events. Self-interest would tend to prevent this in good part. A split in the organization would weaken it very much. Naturally, with so many offices to be filled next fail, there is a good deal of pipe-laying going on, and all of the candidates for these offices will do their utmost to secure the nomination. What has been published is true, but I hope that no serious rupture will take place. There is a good deal of feeling against Grady, Kearney, Spinola and the others who were at Abany because they have made the organization, to a certain extent, unpopular."

Popular."

President Sauer said: "I do not care to say any thing about the matter at present, further than this: That the grambling at the members of the Blossom Club comes in good part from men who are caudidates for nomination."

CHEERING MORRISSEY'S PORTRAIT.

The Executive Committee of the XIth Assembly District Democratic Association (County Democracy) met last evening at its rooms in Sixth-ave. Robert B. Nooney presided. A letter was read from Robert B. Lynd, presenting to the Association crayon portraits of John Morrissey and of "this trusty lieutenants," Police Justice Ford and ex-Alderman Thomas Mulligan. Mr. Nooney made a short speech, in which he said that while there were parts of Mr. Morrissey's career that his friends could not dwell on with pleasure, his course as State Senator from the VIIth District was such that his constituents might be glad it none of his successors did worse. Two dags were drawn apart, revesting the three portraits in gilt frames on the wall, at the sight of when there was applause. A resolution was adopted approving the course of Assemblyman J. Hampden Robb in "his sturdy opposition to all rings and monopoles" in the last Lexinature. Mr. Robb made a short address, in which he said: "The last session of the Legislature was undoubtedly a bad one. It resulted from both the large parties having a minority and being without leadership, which destroyed party responsibility, and left each man to act for himself. Those who dealed reform had to be content with fighting the corrupt measures which were introduced. The Democrats made a great mistake in not impeaching Judge Westbrook, He deserved it it anybody ever did, and if we had made it a party issue I believe we could have gained 25,000 votes by it at the next election." The Executive Committee of the XIth As
